OBJECTIVE: Dahi Handi is one of the famous Hindu festivals celebrated all over the India. It is celebrated on the next day of Krishna Janmashtami. In our college we are arranging different types of festivals to preserve the Indian Culture, because of Dahi-Handi, everyone comes together once a year to enjoy. It is also a sportive event to encourage the students. They forget their differences and fights and involve ourselves in this sport with the sole purpose of attaining greater heights in not just for game but they can also achieve their goals in life too.

DESCRIPTION: The Rajgad Dnyanpeeth's Technical Campus, Shree Chhatrapati Shivajiraje College of Engineering, Dhangawadi, Cultural Committee has been organizing "DahiHandi" every year on Krishna Janmashtami, so relevantly this year also we are celebrating this event on 26th August 2016, at 2:00 noon in our college campus.

Dahi-Handi (dahi: curd, handi: earthen pot) is an Indian festival, celebrated every August/September, that involves making a human pyramid and breaking an earthen pot filled with curd tied at a convenient/difficult height. This event is based on the legend of the child-god Krishna stealing butter. A participant in this festival is called a Govinda or Govinda Pathak. It is part of the main festival Gokulashtami, which is known as Krishna Janmashtami in the rest of the country, and celebrates the birth of Krishna. The festival was celebrated with much cheer and enthusiasm throughout.

Our college has arranging DJ System for the student's enjoyment. We hire crane for Dahihandi (Janmashtami) celebration, clay pots with curd and butter are hung high up on the top. We have two teams one from boys side & other from girls side. They makes pyramid and compete to break the pot. Finally girls' team broken the pot and they are the winners.
